HINT CHECK · EVERY CALL
Run the address for Home Internet. Slip it in — don't pitch it.

OPEN STRONG
FIRST 30 SECONDS

LOW-PRESSURE OPEN
Lower the stakes

Acknowledge they might just be looking. Gets them off the defensive.

> "Hey! No pressure at all — are you just exploring what's out there today, or did something specific catch your eye?"

BILL-CHECK LEAD
Anchor on the bill

Money is the doorway in — especially if they're 35+.

> "Mind if I pull up your current bill real quick? I want to make sure whatever we do today actually makes sense for you."

WHAT'S REALLY GOING ON?

ONE MORE QUESTION
Ask one more than you think you need to

The real objection usually lives on the second 'why.'

> "Got it — when you say the battery's rough, is it the mid-day slump, or are you making it to bedtime on a charge?"

HINT DOOR OPENER

Slip the address check in

Phrase it as doing THEM a favor, not a pitch.

> "While I've got you — what's the address? I want to see if we can knock out that cable bill too."

Coach: Slow down. Match their energy for the first 20 seconds before you try to lead.

CLOSE IT OUT

MAKE IT EASY TO SAY YES

NON-NEGOTIABLE

P360 isn't an accessory

Treat it as a given. One sentence, move on.

> "I'm setting you up with P360 — that's your protection through the whole phone life. Standard on every upgrade."

PERFECT UPGRADE CYCLE

Keep the bill flat

Trade-in + Keep & Switch beats a raw upgrade for credit-sensitive callers.

> "Keep & Switch is the smarter move — we bring your old phone over, no credit hit, bill stays flat."

GETTING PUSHBACK?
LET'S FLIP IT

"Too expensive"

FLIP IT

Anchor on their current bill, not our price.

> "Totally fair — what are you paying right now? Let me see if we can actually shrink that before we talk about anything new."

"I'm not ready to switch"

FLIP IT

Agree with them. Don't push. Ask one more question.

> "Yeah, switching's a hassle — I get it. If I could make the switching part disappear, would the rest actually make sense?"

"I need to talk to my spouse"

FLIP IT

Offer to hold the deal. Real deadline, no pressure.

> "Smart move. I'll hold these numbers on my side through tonight. Loop them in, call me back, we pick right up."
